The Editorial Board is authorised to adopt editorial policy and strategy. It is responsible for the implementation and planning of the editorial policy and strategy as well as for the planning, preparation, publication and distribution of the publication. III Vision

The vision of the Editorial Board is to increase the level of quality and recognisability of the CMC and its articles to meet the criteria for a higher classification of the publication according to international standards. Its contents will contribute to the development of military, defence and security science and profession in the Republic of Slovenia and internationally.

IV Goals

- To qualify for the second category of publications according to the criteria of the Slovenian Research Agency
- To raise the visibility of the CMC within the defence system as well as with Slovenian and international public
- To increase the share of articles classified as scientific under the COBISS typology
- To increase the role of the Editorial Council
- To increase the number of articles on topical military, defence and security subjects.
- To include international reviewers in the review process
- To include new Editorial Board members from abroad

- To qualify for more international databases

V Strategy for achieving goals

The CMC's core guideline will be quality. The main task of Editorial Board members and the reviewers will be to make a quality selection of the contents and comply with the agreed standards for publication. By doing this, the Editorial Board aims at raising its quality category among the related publications.

The Editorial Board will strive to increase the visibility of the CMC with both internal and external public, and to facilitate its accessibility through electronic media. Particular efforts will be aimed at increasing its visibility in the international environment. The Editorial Board will also intensify its cooperation with various foreign institutions, where editorial boards deal with similar subjects, and promote the exchange of articles with them.

The essential tool for the implementation of goals will be intensive communication with the purpose of informing a wide range of internal and external professional public and thus attracting authors who are willing and capable of contributing quality articles in the spirit of the editorial policy.

The planned scope of the CMC is to publish four issues per year, two in Slovene and two in English language. Among these, at least one issue will be thematic and related to important processes or topical issues in the national and international environment. For other issues, the Editorial Board will not limit the authors by providing specific topics, but it will allow for a free selection of topics and ensure the quality and compliance with the standards.

In the period 20/21, the Contemporary Military Challenges will again apply as a candidate for the SCOPUS database and other international databases with the emphasis on social sciences.

VI Criterion of success

The CMC's mission and strategic goals will be achieved by:

- publishing four issues per year
- expanding the circle of institutions where the authors come from
- expanding the Editorial Board membership with members from abroad
- appointing new Editorial Council members from abroad
- publishing more articles from the international environment
- expanding the range of topics
- increasing the number of scientific articles
